THE BOOK OF EPHESIANS
"The Reason for Spiritual Gifts"
Ephesians 4:12, 13

Introduction
1. The believer’s walk is outlined (vv. 1-3). Those items by which one believer is bound to another are provided (vv. 4-6).

2. It is the ascended Christ Who descended to the earth (vv. 9, 10). His ascension is viewed as a Victor returning from battle who distributes his spoils to his followers, grace gifts in this case (vv. 7, 8).

3. The major gifts were given to the body, the organism of which the Ephesian church speaks (1:22, 23). The issue of organization is not the point here as it is in the Pastoral (1 and 2 Timothy; Titus). What is the end for which these gifts were conferred? That is the matter now.

1. FOR PERFECTION v. 12
   The preposition used here indicates an ultimate goal (πρός pros). Thus the gifts (v. 11) are designed to perfect saints. The verb "perfect" (καταρτίσμος katartismos) means to restore or bring to full furnishing so as to correct all deficiencies. It is the complete outfitting of the saints. The verb is used of "mending" nets (Mat. 5:21), "framing" the world (Heb. 11:3), and "restoring" a believer (Gal. 6:1).

2. FOR MINISTRATION v. 12
   This clause has usually been taken as co-ordinate with the previous one. While the change in preposition (εἰς eis) is not decisive, it does appear that what is viewed here is immediate and not ultimate as the perfection is. Moreover, the anarthrous nouns "work" (ἐργον ergon) and "ministry" (διακονία diakonias) have the prevailing meaning in the N.T. of "spiritual service of an official character" (Acts 1:25; 6:4; 20:24; Ro. 11:13; 1 Tim. 1:12; 2 Tim. 4:5). This, then, would put the gifts (v. 11) as the primary subjects and theirs as the work of the ministry!

3. FOR EDIFICATION v. 12
   Here is another immediate goal for the same preposition (εἰς eis) is again used as with ministry. To "edify" means to "build up." (ὁικοδομήν oikodomēn). This really defines the "work of ministry." The gifts (v. 11) are the means God has provided whereby all members are built up in completeness. It would be safe to conclude that all gifts, including those listed in Ro. 12 and 1 Cor. 12, are designed for the edification of the body.

4. FOR UNIFICATION v. 13
   There is no uncertainty expressed in the original Greek in the temporal clause (μέχρι mechri). The ministry and edification are in view and not the gifts in this temporal clause. The verb "come" means to "arrive at" or "attain" in the sense of reaching a goal (καταντήσωμεν katantesomen cf. Acts 26:7; Phil. 3:11). Obviously, "all" speaks of Christians and not a confluence of nations. "Faith" has to do with trust or confidence while "knowledge" (ἐπιστολή epistole) refers to full experimental knowledge. Both faith and knowledge relate to the "Son of God." He is at one with the Father in glory, attributes and honor.

5. FOR MATURATION v. 13
   None is perfect this side of heaven, but the goal has been set. Hence the idea is "full grown" or "mature" here (τέλεαιon telien). This is opposed to the infant (v. 14). The state in which faith and knowledge are expected is also the state of maturity here. Since unity is a primary concern here, "man" (ἀνδρα andra) is singular. This maturity is further explicated by the phrase "unto the measure of the stature of the fullness of Christ." Complete conformity to Christ is the ultimate standard of perfection. Individuals are not the target here, but the whole body viewed as a single organism reaching its full spiritual stature. Scripture teaches the body is already there by the call of God (1:23), but now the body is to experience this fullness in the life and growth of its members.

Conclusion
   God has glorious goals for the Church. He has given the equipment to accomplish the goals. May every member be submissive so as to experience God's intension for the body. Amen.
